

Oklahoma Sheriff tries to explain mysterious 90 day vacation in broken-down motorhome...

 thelostogle.com/2022/05/26/oklahoma-sheriff-tries-to-explain-mysterious-90-day-vacation-in-broken-down-motorhome

Patrick

May 26, 2022

Last week, we told you about the curious case of Stephens County Sheriff Wayne McKinney.

At the time, the only thing we really knew was that Sheriff McKinney stopped showing up to work for almost 90 days as he battled both personal and canine health issues while living in a broken-down motorhome in a gravel parking lot in Alabama.

This past Monday, the Stephens County Board of Commissioners was supposed to discuss the Sheriff's absence but had to postpone because one of the commissioners was on vacation, probably stuck on a broken-down houseboat off the coast of Louisiana.

Although the Board of Commissioners didn't discuss Sheriff McKinney's fate, the Sheriff did talk at length to the Duncan Banner in an attempt to justify his 90-day AWOL excursion. Specifically, the Sheriff wanted to clarify that he wasn't some podunk hick cooking meth in a tiny broken-down camper, but instead, a hotshot retiree having issues with a brand-new, luxurious, limited-edition RV.

Via The Duncan Banner:

- Lost Ogle content is free for 24 hours after publication! To read the rest of the article, become a Lost Ogle Member for only $5 a month.