WEBSTER, N.Y. —A deputy in the Monroe County Jail is suspended without pay after being accused of sexual abuse.

Jacob Hoyt was charged with first-degree sexual abuse Friday.

Webster Police say someone called them on May 1 and said Hoyt had non-consensual sexual contact with them inside a private residence.

After investigating, officers arrested Hoyt on Friday, May 3, and he was arraigned in Webster Town Court. He posted $5,000 bail, and was later released from the Webster Police Department.

Hoyt has worked at the Jail Bureau for seven years.
